

Welcome! We want your first visit in our office to be everything that you deserve. We strive to treat each patient as though they are part of our family.

Chiropractic is a solid combination of specific science and a caring art of adjusting the spine. Because the spine is the channel between your brain and nearly every cell that makes up your body, you literally live your life through your spine. Every aspect of our life is controlled by this very important relationship.

You will be evaluated for the presence of imbalances, commonly referred to as subluxations, in your spine. Subluxations can cause varying symptoms by affecting your spine in several different ways but most commonly by interrupting the functional quality of your spine and it's relationship with the rest of your body.

If subluxations are detected in your spine and we believe that we can help you, we will explain it more thoroughly. You can count on that! We strongly believe that each patient must completely understand what is wrong, how long it will take to correct and how much it will cost.

Many patients are surprised by the far-reaching results of chiropractic. Chiropractic has grown immensely because of two reasons, patient satisfaction and word of mouth. Once patients experience the chiropractic lifestyle, it's hard not to share it.

Our office values each and every patient who is committed to improving their health and we encourage you to help others by referring them to chiropractic.

If your health doesn't make you feel that now is the time of your life...it should! Health is the most valuable of all our assets and we are thankful that you have chosen us to help you with yours.

We look forward to meeting you!

Sincerely,

Mathes Family Chiropractic
